

SGD Awards

And the winners are...

Andrew Wilson FSGD and Amanda Patton MSGD have taken the two most prestigious awards at the Society of Garden Designers (SGD) annual awards ceremony, receiving the Grand Award and Judges Awards respectively in front of an audience of over 300 guests.

The accolades were presented at a ceremony in London in January where 18 awards were announced including recognition for community garden projects, international schemes, excellence in public and commercial outdoor space and a special a lifetime achievement award.

Juliet Sargeant MSGD, Chair of the Society of Garden Designers said: "With more designers entering, more awards to give and more friends and colleagues to celebrate with, the annual SGD Awards has gone from strength to strength. Members of the Society of Garden Designers undertake every kind of exterior project that you could imagine; their mission is to enhance landscape for the good of everyone in society, whilst delivering excellent service to owners of individual gardens. The SGD Awards has burst onto the landscaping scene and I am tremendously proud of the excellent standard of entries received and the exciting showcase it has become."
