

COMMUNITY TREASURE

Do you know of a community garden that has been transformed into a glorious green oasis worthy of winning an award? If so, you can enter it into the 2017 Society of Garden

Designers' (SGD) Awards, for which Homes & Gardens is proud to be the media partner once again. Last year's winner of the Best Community Space was Breaker's Yard (right), a garden created by Dan Lobb MSGD for the National Trust's Sutton House in London. Whether your outside space has been designed by the community, or by a designer commissioned by the community, so long as it is funded by a not-for-profit project, you can enter it into the SGD Awards. You will need to submit your entry form and fee by 2 June and send your actual submission electronically by 16 June. For more information, visit sgdawards.com.
